

Research Week

18-22 October 2010

PIRI Early Years Award

Aim

The Parent-Infant Research Institute offers this Award to assist with registration costs at a relevant research meeting or conference, for a professional or student conducting psychological research relevant to parent or infant outcomes.

Selection Criteria

- Open to professionals and students researching in these areas.
- Quality of abstract submitted for Research Week

Prize

$200 reimbursement of costs associated with attendance at a scientific meeting.

Presentation will be made at Research Week on Thursday 21 October; applicants are expected to be present.

The award should be redeemed before April 2012

PIRI is a vigorous and innovative Australian research institute whose aim is to improve the emotional well-being of parents and infants.

PARENT-INFANT RESEARCH INSTITUTE (PIRI)

PIRI - Investing in the early years through prevention