

Protecting Your Privacy

This document explains:

- What information we collect about you
- How we use your health information
- The circumstances that allow you to refuse sharing of your information.

How Austin Health keeps your information private

Austin Health complies with relevant laws to protect the privacy of your information. We have strict policies on how we collect, store, use, and disclose patient information. Your information can only be viewed by authorised staff.

Information that Austin Health collects about you

- demographic details about you, such as your name and contact details
- the contact details of your General Practitioner (GP) and nominated representatives
- details about your healthcare. This may include information from other external healthcare providers, if this is needed for your care.

Please tell us on your next visit or phone 03 9496 5447 if your contact details or your GP details change, so that we can stay in contact with you or your GP about your ongoing healthcare needs.

How Austin Health uses your information

To make decisions about your care in partnership with you	To ask you to join a research project
To offer health education to you	To understand health trends
To complete a survey about your visit	To plan better services
To ask for a donation to Austin Health	For research and teaching purposes

Access to your information

You can apply to access your information under the Freedom of Information Act. You also have the right to request an amendment if you believe that the information is incorrect, incomplete, out-of-date or misleading. Download the FOI application at www.austin.org.au/foi or phone 03 9496 3103.

Who outside of Austin Health may receive information about you?

- Austin Health may be required to share information with external service providers so that we can provide you with the best care or organise services for you. This may include:
 - Your GP
 - Other external health care providers such as your specialist or another hospital

Austin Health acknowledges the Traditional Custodians of the land and pays its respects to Elders past, present and emerging.

Austin Health celebrates, values and includes people of all backgrounds, genders, sexualities, cultures, bodies and abilities.
